Maggie Oh
Director of Scientific Affairs

The training session was conducted online at the training site of Medical Developments International. Every attempt was made to ensure the accuracy of contents at the time of presentation, however, because the volume of current relevant literature and supportive activities is vast, it is acknowledged that some relevant literature may not have been identified. MDI does not credential staff from any other organisation or company or accredit them to practise organisational specific guidelines or protocols. It is also acknowledged that some content contained within this online training session may not accurately reflect organisational specific operating protocols and in no way whatsoever should attendance at this online training session be considered as authorisation to practise outside organisational and personal professional scopes of practice. MDI or any person who has contributed to the development of this online training session, does not accept any liability or responsibility for any loss, damage, injury or expense arising from its use or any errors or omissions in its content.
